

TMP Beteiligungsgesellschaft Acquires HARTING Systems: A New Chapter Begins

Peter Weichert, Managing Director HARTING Systems, Philip Harting, CEO HARTING Technology Group and Dr Christoph Barth, designated Managing Director of the new HARTING Systems GmbH (f. l.) in front of one of the checkout zones produced by HARTING Systems.

The internationally renowned HARTING Technology Group, known for its prowess in industrial connectivity, recently unveiled the acquisition of its subsidiary, HARTING Systems GmbH, by TMP Beteiligungsgesellschaft. HARTING Systems GmbH, with its niche in automated checkout areas and product dispensers, will see all its shares transferred to TMP following the completion of this deal.

Philip Harting, the helm of HARTING Technology Group, expressed his contentment: "We're ecstatic to secure a promising avenue for HARTING Systems' staff and clientele. TMP emerged as the ideal partner, showing prowess in sustainable business progression. With the expertise of Dr. Christoph Barth stepping in as the new Managing Director for HARTING Systems GmbH, we are optimistic about the company's growth trajectory."

Taking over the reins, Dr. Christoph Barth shared, "It's an exhilarating opportunity to channel my expertise towards nurturing a resilient business model. With the dedicated team in Espelkamp, our vision is clear: ushering HARTING Systems into a digitally-charged, successful era."

HARTING Technology Group's focus will now be sharpened on amplifying its primary "Industrial Connectivity" segment and scaling its global outreach strategy. Meanwhile, the Group will continue to support HARTING Systems GmbH, offering services during this transitional phase. Moreover, Peter Weichert, the longstanding director of HARTING Systems GmbH, remains a pillar of the company, stating, "Under the new ownership, our commitment to spearheading the market and tech advancements remains unwavering. We discern immense growth opportunities in digitalized checkout sectors and robust product dispensers."

The acquisition will be a catalyst, laying down the groundwork for sustained growth. This entails forging a unique corporate structure, crystallizing a corporate image, and conceptualizing a brand identity for both products and the corporation.

While this acquisition signifies a new dawn, the financial specifics remain undisclosed by mutual agreement of both parties.